

My Favorite Season In the South Shore Region

My favorite season in the South Shore Region is winter. I like winter for many reasons. They are: the snow, getting to skip school, and for Christmas.

My first reason for adoring the winter is for the snow. I love the snow because it decorates the trees and ground in a glittering crystal like powder that makes everything look so beautiful. I like to have snowball fights with my little sister. We build snow mounds and hide behind them while the other throws snow balls at them. Another thing I love to do in the snow is sledding. I like to sled down the street that I live on. I have a big hill. I think that it is more fun to sled backwards, it's a blast!

Another reason that I like winter is because most of the time you get to miss school. I usually like school, really I do but when it snows and school gets canceled I'm not going to complain. Even teachers can't say that they like to be able to miss school and have all of that free time to relax or do whatever they want. I get time to just relax and hang out with my friends and stay out late, only till ten, but it's later than usual. I also like to have school canceled because it means no homework or sitting in class. It doesn't even have to snow to get out, it's better if it does though!

The reason that I like winter most of all, and the final one I am going to discuss, is Christmas. I love Christmas, but who doesn't? I like the break we get and the time I get to spend with my mom. I hardly ever get to see my mom because she works all of the time, so when ever I get a chance I spend time with her. Another reason, and the most obvious reason, I like Christmas is for the presents, but if we didn't get any I would like with it. It isn't really that important, honestly.

My favorite season in the South Shore Region is winter and I have just told you about them. Snow, school being canceled, and Christmas are my reasons for liking winter in the South Shore Region.
