

My Favorite Fall Activity in the South Shore Region

In the fall, there are several things my family and I love to do in the South Shore Region, but my favorite activity is going hiking with my dad. We love to go hiking near the Buffalo River down the Indian Rock House trail. I love all the different things we see on the trail, the Indian Rock House, and just being with my dad.

Before we get to the cave, we see amazing things. We see lots of animals such as foxes and deer. The colors of the crunchy and different colored leaves are beautiful. My dad and I also go into the little caves we see on our way.

When we get to the Indian Rock House, we go inside and take a break eat some food, and then clean up our mess. Then we go into the back and go up into the little cave. In there we usually see cute little bats sleeping. After, we start heading back down the trail.

I love just to spend quality time with my dad. He is a great guy! He always loves to go on an adventure, and that's why we always go hiking to the Indian Rock House.

Hiking is awesome activity to do in the South Shore Region. I love it because of what I see on the trail, the Indian Rock House cave, and just being with my dad.
