

My Favorite Fall Activity

My favorite fall activity in the South Shore Region is paintball. I play paintball on the paintball course at my house, and in many other places. Paintball is tactical: it is an excellent source of exercise, and a great way to socialize with my friends, family, and paintball team.

I think paintball is a very tactical war game. When I am playing I am constantly thinking about where I should go, and where the other players are and where they may be going. My team and I try to trap the other team by surrounding them and forcing them to surrender. If I am shot while playing I think that it is obvious that my tactics were wrong and that I should plan more carefully in the next war.

Paintball is an excellent source of exercise in the forests of the South Shore Region. I get great exercise while I am playing because I'm constantly crawling, climbing, and sprinting. My paintball marker is exceptionally heavy compared to other paintball markers. My marker weighs about thirteen pounds, because of my hopper, CO<sub>2</sub> tank, and a twelve inch barrel extension.

Playing paintball in the fall with my friends, family, and the other players on my paintball team is so much fun! Everyone comes to my house with their paintball markers, masks and enthusiasm. We chose teams and then we decide on the game that we are going to play, whether it's capture the flag, or dead man walking we always have plenty of good clean fun! Sometimes we will have up to twenty people at our house on Saturday to play paintball because we always have so much fun.
